The hallowed halls of Lowell could more properly be called the hollowed halls of Lowell in this picture. However, at the sound of the class bell students will pour from the rooms to fill the halls with pandemonium,

You have all heard of the Knights of the Round Table, and at our school we have the round tables. Unfortunately we don't have the knights just teachers to make us eat properly!

Why do you dissect sharks in biology class? What motivated you to spend so many hours on your term paper? Why were you so proud to wear your new class sweaters and rings? What caused you athletes to be able to endure those long hours of practice?

It was desire.....a little six letter word which can mold our lives forever. What is desire? It is a longing or an inner motive to achieve a goal. The goals of different students are varied just as their desires are varied. This variation in desires and goals is the reason L.H.S. offers so many different subjects and activities for students to participate in.

The students give a deserving hand to Midge as she receives a scholarship to nurse's school.

It is through the diligent work of the members of the Lowellette staff that we were able to receive the paper once every two weeks. Shown here are four members of the staff preparing an issue of the Lowellette.

The desire for achievement motivates us.

The National Honor Society increased its membership tremendously this year as twenty new members underwent the rigors of the initiation ceremony. Shown above is Walter Meyers, the Society's president, welcoming all who were in attendance.

Chuck Purkey stands erect and proudly in his letterman jacket. He as well as the others who earned their jackets this year has a perfect right to feel proud at their accomplishment.

A new and welcome addition to Lowell High School was the occupational file. The file is located in the library and contains material which pertains to almost all occupations. To further aid the students there are also some personal guidance books which cover subject from How to Take a Test to Becoming Men and Women.

Busy as bees could well describe these home ec girls. Many hours are spent working on the numerous sewing projects. The girls, however, always find that the satisfaction of the finished product is worth everything they put into it.

With a sigh of relief and a look of pride the seniors prepare to take the mile walk. Unlike a person on death row, who walks to his destruction the seniors feel as if they are walking to their eventful freedom.

As can be expected there is always some clowning around in every class. Here Ernie tries his hypnotic powers on Dan. Luckily for Dan only people with average or above average mentality can be hypnotized.

These girls exhibit their ability at speaking when they debate in speech and dramatics class.

With their hair flying, the girls tumble their way through gym class.

The ping pong ball seems to be holding the attention of Bonny and Chuck as they practice for the doubles fable tennis tourneys.

These junior students really put the emphasis on 'fun' as they prepare the stage for the Junior Play!

Little can be accomplished without participation.

Archery, one of the up and coming pastimes, has made its effect felt in Lowell's intramural program. This intramural activity takes muscular coordination as well as a keen eye.

Shown here are some of the archery participants getting their range on the targets.

The agriculture students relax and enjoy themselves at the F.F.A. banquet. Through this organization the boys who took agriculture prepared themselves for a future in farming.

Senator Horsefly Feddeler is at it again! As in previous years the government classes tried their hand at the business of Congress. More often than not it was simply monkey-business.

It was through the participation of all the members of the solid geometry class that the Christmas tree was such a big success again this year.

Our band, under the leadership of Mr. Minix, and our choir, under the leadership of Mr. Frederick, sang and played their way into the hearts of the people during the Christmas Concert.

The choir sang many old favorite Christmas carols. To add spice to the evening separate groups of the choir sang such songs as Deck the Halls, A Christmas Carol, and Lach Christmas Night.

Following the Choir's glowing performance, the band played a medley of Christmas songs. The Carol of the Drum seemed to draw the greatest interest from the audience.

As a grand finale the band accompanied the choir in three songs for Christmas.

Our desire to learn is displayed in the classroom.

Study hall affords all students the opportunity to catch up on any work that they are behind in and also it gives them a chance to hear the latest gossip.

The drafting classes present a atmosphere than most other classrooms. In this class each student works at the rate which is best suited for himself, thereby learning how to schedule his time to accomplish the best possible performance.

The freshmen biology students in this picture depict a typical classroom scene at Lowell High School. The frogs that can be seen on the desks, will eventually be dissected to help them in their studies.

The hot fire can't melt the determination of these students who participate in welding shop. The welding machines give the resounding hum of progress as the boys prepare themselves for an occupation.

Although this picture shows some beautiful mixtures, chemistry, to the students, is not all beauty, but hard work and effort.

Precision is the best word to describe the physics experiment. Mike and Tom focus their attention on their work as they try to find the specific heat of different metals.

"Yours is not to reason why, yours is but to dodge or die." This is the motto of the pedestrians of Lowell when they see one of the drivers' training students coming.

One of the most satisfying classes is Miss Baughman's solid geometry class. Near the Christmas season, the boys and girls anxiously await the enjoyment of making Christmas ornaments.

One of the most enjoyable moments of the chemistry class was the day they visited the Lowell water works. The class was shown the system of valves and pipes by Mr. Bartholomew. With little restraint the girls climbed over obstacles and up ladders as well, if not better than the boys.

Because the metal lathe is so intricate the opportunity to work with it is afforded only to senior boys who have had at least three previous years of shop.

Individual instruction is given to Kippy Gorbail, one of the many freshmen who has entered the band this year. He is being taught by Mr. Minix, our able band leader. Because the competition is so great many hours of diligent study and practice are necessary to meet the demands of the band.

We attend because we have the desire to attend.

Does this look familiar to anyone? It should because it's an every hour occurrence during a school day. There is one advantage, however, to crowded halls--the students all share a feeling of togetherness!

Here in vivid color is the Lowell High School Pep Club. Loyalty, spirit, and enthusiasm are displayed at the L.H.S. sports events by these girls.

Lunch is over and the students reluctantly leave the gym to go back to class.

The students try to walk through the confusion of the parking lot as they leave the hallowed halls of good old Lowell High to go home.....and do some homework?

One can immediately see the enthusiasm which these students show as they prepare their lessons for the next day.

Victory! Victory! is our cry

The pre-game pep sessions give the students a chance to build up enthusiasm for the up-coming game. With precision and accuracy the cheerleaders lead the group in the cheers.

Oh those pep buses! The pep buses are the school's portable pep sessions. On the buses all inhibitions are left behind as everyone screams their way to East Chicago Washington.

People are funny! Notice the many varied expressions on these spectators. Some are happy, some worried, and some ill. How can one moment cause such a variety of feelings?

Lowell's track team takes a good pose as it has three boys running in the lead as they near the end of the high hurdle race.

Reggie attempts another shot as Lowell puts on a great splurge of power.

Ernie Anderson and Larry Hitzeman prepare to print more pictures as the yearbook goes into the final days of preparation. These two boys began learning the art of photography.

Our librarians are not always female as is shown by Dale Woodke and Ray Szarmach. These two boys do a fine job of keeping order in the confusion of the library.

The office girls have their work cut out for them, as they check the attendance, search through files, and do any of a million other things that the personnel find necessary for the girls' attention.

Ernie Anderson attempted a little humor when he took on the job of Master of Ceremonies at the Thespian Talent Show. His wit was greatly appreciated by the audience.

Dodgeball is a game that separates the boys from the girls. Here Paul Russell fires the ball with all of his strength.

Midge is caught rushing to and fro as she works selling cokes between halves of a basketball game.

Mike Moody is shown taking a test in course 309, which is our breaking and entering class. Unfortunately this class is limited in enrollment.

The pom-pom girls perform with the band to present half-time entertainment.

Midge and Linda do their part in decorating for the Mothers' Tea. It is through the effort of these girls that the Mothers' Tea is such a beautiful event.

The unsung heroes of our basketball program are those boys who eagerly carry out the duty of taking statistics during the games. Through their diligent work, the coach is able to find weaknesses in the team.

What would a football or basketball game be without a program? These boys don't plan to let us know as they scour the sporting events looking for prospective buyers.

Peggy goes into one of her tantrums as the rest of the girls look on. It seems they could at least call a doctor.

The adults seem to be giving the food a critical eye as they serve themselves during the Letterman's banquet.

Wouldn't you know it!! These sneaky girls accomplished the improbable through their charms. They were able to get the boys to dance during the noon hour. Unbelievably, the boys seem to be enjoying it!

Mike Moody and Bob Myers keep us entertained during the noon hours and at the dances after the games by spinning records.

The senior girls seem to be enjoying another evening at a slumber"less" party.

Our after-game dances are enjoyed by both the boys and the girls. These are the few times that the girls can entice the boys onto the floor. If nothing else is accomplished at these dances at least the floor is kept clean!

The Latin Club put on quite a fruity banquet this year, as they served every fruit delicacy from grapes to apples. From the looks of the students the banquet was a fruit success.

well girls, it only happens twice in the four years of high school. Of course I mean the Big Sister Little Sister Party. Unlike other years, the Seniors entertained their little sisters with a crazy fashion show.

Really, Kenny! The food wasn't that bad.

Faculty

Although we seldom think about it, without our faculty our goals and desires would be meaningless. The faculty members push us on and give us the spark which is needed to make us accomplish our goals. To the faculty we say, "Thank you for your patience, your kindness, and your friendship."

Although it takes time, initiative, and hard work to make activities profitable, the students do receive much enjoyment from them.

Acappella Choir

Singing fills the halls during fifth period when the choir starts to practice. Without this practice our choir would not be able to put on such good performances at the Christmas or Spring Concerts.

The choir grew to seventy members the largest number ever, however, male voices were still lacking. Mr. Frederick, the choir director, and the choir members are to be commended on their fine performances this past year and hopes are that they will continue in the future.

Band

Music is something that Lowell High sure dosen't lack.

The 1962-63 edition of the LHS band is one of the biggest and most colorful we have ever seen.

Decked out in their new uniforms, the band performed at half-time during the football season. The basketball season didn't lack music either. The pep band was present at almost all our home games and they lent to the school spirit at the pep sessions.

Concert Band

Band

Under the capable direction of Mr. Minix, our band seems to improve every year. As in former years, our band was well represented in state and local music contests. Band members brought home more and greater awards to add to the success of the organization.

Mr. Minix and the Pep Band fill the gym with music during one of our home basketball games.

Marching Band

Future Farmers of America

The purpose of the FFA is to educate its members the responsibilities of a free democracy through farming.

The Lowell chapter of the FFA is involved in many activities throughout the year. The members enter a wide variety of contests, from these they bring home a great quantity of awards for themselves and for the high school.

As we all know, Lowell is a farming community, rich in agriculture, therefore the FFA plays an important part in our life. To help the Future Farmers learn about the farming life, the club rents a 35-acre farm plot to earn money as well as gain more experience.

As long as there is a Lowell High there will always be a FFA.

The newest organization in Lowell High School is the Future Teachers Club.

Under the direction of Mr. Barthlow, our guidance counselor, the Future Teachers Club has become a very active organization. The club has had panel discussions, taken field trips, and many other interesting activities which were enjoyed by all the members.

On Valentines Day this year the teachers were honored by the Future Teachers. This day was designated by the club as Personnel Recognition Day, all the faculty members as well as the other staff members were presented with corsages. This proved to be a very worthwhile endeavor and all the personnel hope it will be repeated each year from now on.

Freshmen

Girls' Athletic Association

This year President Kennedy pushed for a physical fitness program and in keeping with this program the GAA girls took an active part in their sports.

Basketball, volleyball, deck tennis, ping pong, and badminton are just a few of the athletic endeavors of the girls. The noon hour and after school the girls could be seen and heard taking an active part in their games. This year all the teams were evenly matched and there had to be play-offs for the championship of a few of the sports, which lent to the excitement of the different seasons. But win or lose the girls really enjoyed themselves.

One of the most beautiful events in Lowell High School is the Mothers' Tea. This program is one of the responsibilities of the GAA and every year it is more wonderful than the last.

The wives and homemakers of the future are being trained right here in Lowell High School. Cooking and sewing are just a couple of the things the girls learn to do at their meetings. They also learn to stuff chicken wire with tissues. All kidding aside, the girls do learn a lot in regards to keeping a beautiful home.

They are capably taught the art of homemaking by Mrs. Vandermark and Mrs. Huff, as well as some guest speakers who are invited to speak at the club meetings.

The Home Ec. Club is a co-sponsor of the Mothers Tea, upon which they do a splendid job.

Latin Club

"Is my toga straight?"
 "Are we suppose to eat this food with our fingers?"
 "Bring on the wine, I mean the grape juice!"

This is just a sample of the remarks heard at the second annual Advocati Latini banquet. Only in its second year the Latin Club has made a great deal of progress.

Under the supervision of their sponsor, Mr. Frederick, the active members who are second year Latin students, hold their meetings every other Friday. At these meetings the club members learn about Latin culture and life.

As in last year's banquet, the first-year Latin students were the slaves. This act of serving as slaves is an initiation into the club for them. The job of a slave is to entertain the masters for the whole evening. It requires a lot of work, but the slaves, as well as the masters, enjoy themselves. Even now, the students are looking forward to next year.

The school newspaper was in very capable hands this year. The students pictured on this page worked very hard to produce a newspaper the students of Lowell High could be proud of.

Few people realize the work required in putting out a school paper. There are people to interview, deadlines to be met, information to gather and finally typing the article up and pasting it down. Mr. Ham, Mrs. Schafer, and the staff have every right to be proud of their fine work.

National Honor Society

Linda Little, Vice-President
Walter Meyers, President
Ruth Kretz, Secretary-Treasurer

The "brainiest" organization in Lowell High School is the National Honor Society. The Honor Society is made up of Juniors and Seniors who have maintained at least a 3.2 average in their high school studies.

It is a great honor to belong to this organization and like everything else worthwhile it requires work and lots of it. The members of the Society are hardworking students and they have earned a well deserved honor, membership in the Lowell High School Summa Cum Laude Chapter number 8295, of the National Honor Society.

When a boy gets his letter sweater it is a big day in his life. Suddenly, this boy, no matter how small, becomes a letterman! To the new letterman it is a culmination of many long, hard hours of work in a specific field of athletics.

Our lettermen can gain their major letters in seven fields of athletics at Lowell High School. They are: cross country, football, basketball, wrestling, golf, track, and baseball. As everyone knows the pinnacle of success for these lettermen is the winning of a "L" jacket in their senior year, but for those who don't attain a jacket, there is still the glory of having won even only one letter.

A special organization was formed for our athletes many years ago. The "L" Club is a big cog in our high school life. Under the direction of Mr. Schuyler, the club's sponsor, the lettermen have made quite a name for themselves.

This year as usual the "L" Club has sold programs to raise the funds in their treasury. But a few new activities were undertaken this year. To increase the slowly decreasing school spirit, the club started sponsoring the fan bus to the away games. Another new activity was the lettermen's "L" block. Besides adding color to the pep block, their cheering was a very good improvement. Slowly, the pep and school spirit increased until it reached its peak at the sectionals.

Lettermen's Club

Probably the most colorful club in Lowell High School is the Pep Club, which is very much in evidence on the color pages of our 1963 Lowellian.

Pep Club members cheering for another two pointer and.....

As in former years the Pep Club was made up of only girls. The membership grew to 150 loud, shrill voices. Although the major teams in school, football and basketball, were lacking in the win department this year, there were always Pep Club members present. Riding the "L" Club fan bus to the away games was the main means of transportation for the underclassmen and there was always a full bus.

OFFICERS: Reta Clinton, Secretary,
Dianne Roberts, Treasurer,
Zella Jo Searle, Vice-President,
Nancy Dinsmore, President

.....Reggie aims to please.

At the games the Pep Club combined with the "L" Club and the pep and enthusiasm increased with every game. The climax to the school spirit was reached at the East Chicago Sectional when the Fighting Red Devils played the Hammond Tech Tigers in an over time thriller.

Student Council

Barbara Taylor, Vice-President
Midge Herbst, President

The voice of the students in any high school is the Student Council and Lowell High School is no exception. The Student Council is an important organization, but like everything else it cannot succeed without the co-operation of the students.

As usual the Council members were in charge of the refreshment stand during the athletic events. By selling pop the treasury was kept full.

Instead of a Christmas Formal this year, the Council sponsored a Mid-Winter Formal at the end of January.

Running a high school is a difficult task, but with the help of the Student Council, the job is made a little bit easier.

Sunshine Club

Living up to its name is the primary job of the Sunshine Club. Bringing sunshine by the way of get well wishes to the students who are ill, is the job of this organization. We all must agree that they do this service very well.

The main problem of the Sunshine Club is keeping the treasury full. This year it was accomplished by saving plus caps. The students of Lowell High helped by drinking gallons of Pepsis.

Mrs. Hetherington is the sponsor of the club and has helped this organization live up to its name.

Terry Tuttle, Vice-President
 Jerry Boyd, President
 Myrna Loy, Secretary-Treasurer
 Diane Miller, Corresponding Secretary

Thespians

Larry Cheek, Scribe
Chris Van Nada, Treasurer
Mary Ann Titei, President
Bill Carlson, Vice-President
Gail Fox, Secretary

The plays and the shows put on by the students of Lowell High require a lot of time and work. The participants are rewarded for all the energy they use up in putting on these productions though. Membership in Troupe 1691 of the National Thespian Society is just one reward. The knowledge of succeeding is another.

Under the able direction of Mr. Martin, the Thespians have had a very successful year. Their main project was the Thespian Talent Show. The contest proved to be a worthwhile venture and it was enjoyed by all who attended.

Tri-M

Preston Beeler, Vice President
 Joan Crisan, Secretary
 Dennis Keithley, Treasurer
 Drummond Black, President

An organization in Lowell High, which very few students know about is the Tri-M, or the Modern Music Masters. This organization is made up of Junior and Seniors in band or choir who have a B or better average in music and a C or better in other subjects. The Tri-M is under the direction of Mr. Minix and Mr. Frederick.

Although the club is not a very active one, it is important to its members. The main purpose of the Tri-M is to instill in its members the spirit of good music.

One would think that with such a noble project underfoot that the Lowellian staff might be a group of serious minded people solely bent on fleecing the student body of a few nickels. But this is not the case. Actually Lowellian staffers live and breathe like you and usually have less than two heads. Often nobody in the "devil's den" seems to know what they're doing, but the staff always manages to bluff or blunder its way through the darkness to completion.

Overseeing this confusion and adding greatly to the chaos are the seven senior editors. There are seven because they can cause more confusion than a lesser number. At first glance they resemble any normal high school student: except their vocabulary is limited. Asked any question they answer "no!" They do have many helpful ideas how the alleged yearbook should be produced, but no two ever have the same idea and refuse to admit that anyone else's has any merit. Having seven senior editors makes it possible to change plans and policies often. This keeps Mr. Miller in the dark as to what is to be done, how, when, and where.

As anyone can see, the Lowellian staff is a hard-working devoted group. Whenever their ideas do concur, the resulting plans are worthwhile (worth what we haven't determined). But there's this to say--they may make mistakes, but the resulting All-American yearbook is to their credit.

Midge and Steve are shown here discussing a proposed layout. I wonder who will win?

Ruth Kretz, Steve Wilson, and Ruth Gollings are working on their various sections of the book a full time job for all.

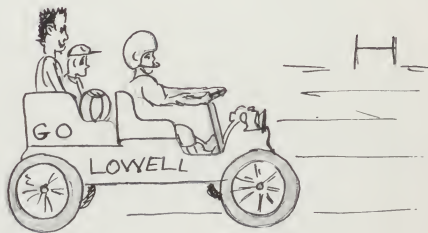

Sandi and Pat are working on the receipts for the more than 550 orders for Lowellians, a new record.

Now here is a Lowellian staffer really caught up in his work!!!!

Sports

The desire to develop our bodies as well as our minds is displayed by the hard work Lowell High students put into sports activities. Among the sports offered here at Lowell are football, cross country, basketball, wrestling, track, golf, and baseball. Though our Devils haven't always made the headlines, they have always had the courage, spirit, and backing to try. Of course, these things could not be done by the student body or the team without our well-qualified coaches.

Football

This year there was a popular song called Big Girls Don't Cry. Maybe that's so, but there sure were a lot of tears shed in the locker room after our games. Our record of only two wins and nine defeats doesn't look very impressive. If you saw the games, however, you know that everyone of them, except Dyer, was a hard-fought contest from start to finish with no one being sure who would win until the final whistle. We lost five games by six points or less and two more by just two touchdowns.

The last game of the season was a real thriller against Portage who ended up as Calumet Conference Champions. Lowell dominated the play in the first three quarters. We held onto the lead all game long despite having a touchdown called back for clipping on the opening kick-off. But in the fourth quarter, our completely exhausted team gave up the lead with only two minutes left to play. After the game, many fans, including those from Portage came out of the stands to congratulate the Red Devils on a great game.

I think Coach Molchan summed up our season very well when he said, "I am very proud of the football team this year. Although we had a losing season, the team never let down or quit trying. They were always trying to win the ball game. I hope that this attitude will prevail with next year's team."

The team thought just as much of Coach Molchan. To illustrate this I'm going to tell you something that very few people know.

A few weeks after the end of the season all of the seniors on the ball club gathered at Tom Beckman's home and from there proceeded to the home of Coach Molchan. There they presented him with a trophy with the inscription, "To the greatest coach a team could have."

Coach Rose wraps Beckman's wrist as Molchan gives a few last words of encouragement before game time.

Rose looks on as Molchan lays out the strategy for next week's game.

Most people watch only the backfield. Few notice the rugged line play which is the backbone of the team.

The people of Lowell have come to expect great things from our wrestlers and are seldom disappointed. In the last few years our wrestlers record have far out shined those of the other sports. This year was no exception. Our boys brought home the Calumet Conference trophy and were able to place second in the wrestling sectionals.

The sectionals, however, proved to be the biggest heart break of the season. All the fans and wrestlers went home believing they had tied Valparaiso for first place. There was a big victory parade that night and all the wrestling fans went to bed happy. It wasn't until Sunday morning when they read the papers that they found out that a mistake had been made and they had lost. Despite this disappointment our wrestlers had a fine season. Coach Todd deserves a great deal of praise for the fine job he has done. Wrestling is certain to gain in popularity and support here at Lowell.

The four boys who placed first in the conference meet strike a proud pose for our cameraman.

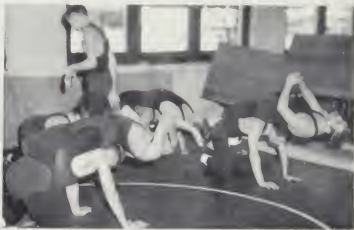

Mitch is in trouble, but not for long. He'll work his way out and end up on top (we hope).

Chuck McMillen, Paul Russell, and Mitch Zakula placed second, and Mike Cunningham won third in the Calumet Conference Wrestling meet.

Believe it or not there is a reason for this horseplay. It helps to loosen up our wrestlers and thus prevents pulled muscles and torn ligaments. Besides its fun!

Wrestling, although it is becoming more and more popular, does not draw big crowds. The results of this are quite evident by this picture which shows our boys, who have just finished wrestling, rolling up their own mat. Even Coach Todd is not exempt from this duty.

These four boys, along with Mickey Grant, are the pride of Lowell's matmen. Mickey won a first in the conference.

Bob Griesmer was one of our co-captains this year. He won first in the conference and first in the sectionals. Bob is a fine wrestler and the team will miss him next year.

Tom Beckman, in the center picture, appears to be taking the bull by the horns. Tom had a very impressive record this year. He was never beaten in season play. He was first in the sectionals and second in the regionals. Tom also served as a co-captain.

Dan Herbst would probably make a good pretzel maker, if the way he tied up this Hammond Tech man is any indication of his abilities. Danny took a first in the conference and first in the sectionals.

Chuck Mc Millen looks like a billy goat as he comes head to head with his opponent. Chuck finished second in the conference, losing by a referee's decision. He did better in the sectionals, however, and came home with a first.

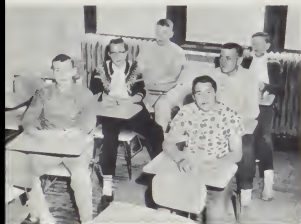

Paul is ready to get a take down on his opponent and thus score.

Coach Todd tries desperately to persuade Danny that he looks just fine, but Danny refuses to wrestle until he has taken that last glance in the mirror. Mr. Herbst stands by helplessly as Danny adjusts his "glass eye."

The managers are the unseen force behind any of our athletic teams. The work is important and their hours are long. Here you see the handsome faces of part of the staff of managers. Larry Thwing, Dick Fish, Jerry Boyd, Tom Panacini, Allen Dockweiler, and Don McMahon.

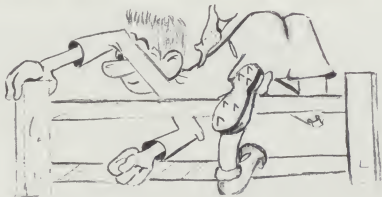

In case you can't tell from the picture, Dan is our heavyweight wrestler.

Korthauer and Patchin race on for another victory for Lowell.

Our hard working track managers strike a serious pose. These serious minded lads are Don McMahon, Danny Harrison, Jerry Boyd, Larry Thwing, and Dick Fish.

Cross country racing is probably the oldest sport in the world. It is a sport which requires great physical endurance. These boys train hard for their run across the open fields.

Golf

Golf, sometimes referred to as pasture pool, allows those interested to participate in and learn a sport which will prove a useful recreational activity in later life. The fresh air and open country provides an excellent pastime.

Underclassmen

As the Freshmen entered high school, they looked forward to ball games, joining clubs, and getting into the high school routine. The Sophomores were busy showing off class sweaters, ordering rings, and showing everyone they had made a place for themselves. Juniors looked forward to their play and prom. Each year their desires were different but they all had the ultimate goal to succeed and to advance to the next class.

Three more years of homework, games, and fun---and our class of "66" will graduate. The excitement and anticipation of their first year of high school runs high as they blindly go from class to class. This is their year to pick class sweaters and get acquainted with other classmates. We welcome you.

Freshmen class officers: Craig Childress, Vice President; Cynthia Ogle, Secretary; Jan Nassau, Treasurer; and Jack Keithley, President.

Special Events

The glorious evening at the prom will never be forgotten. We'll always remember the hilarious plays presented this year at Lowell High. Who could ever forget the spirit and enthusiasm displayed at Homecoming? We desired fun and we found it in our many special events.

Homecoming

Homecoming this year consisted of a snake dance, a pep rally, of course the game, and the crowning of Margie Rutkowske and Bob Griesmer. The pep rally provided the enthusiasm, the snake dance furnished the fun, the crowning gave suspense and class spirit, and the game presented the excitement for our Homecoming. Homecoming is truly a magic moment in the school life of the students.

The parade of candidates.

The Queen and Mr. Touchdown.

Candidates for Homecoming Queen and Mr. Touchdown were B. Criesmer, M. Rutkowske, Seniors; D. Childress, J. Meyer, Juniors; J. VanDeurson, J. Langen, Sophomores; G. Stack, T. McGinley, Freshmen.

Mrs. Call's problems seemed to bore Miss Bromley.

November 9 was the senior's presentation of Tammy Tell Me True. Tammy was a poor riverboat girl who entered the University of Mississippi to get some learnin'. She encountered difficulties with a fuddy old woman, snobby students, and her untrue boy friend. But her sweetness and kindness eventually captured the heart of the young professor, Tom Freeman.

All ends well!

Play

My what a handsome group!

Financial investments caused a mountain of trouble for the Blakley and Hobson families. Mr. Blakley and Mr. Hobson stake all their money in a worthless property and ruin their children's chances for a college education and start a terrible feud between the families when Janet and Keith use their ingenuity and pull their parents out of the jam.

Thespian

T. Regnier and Don Carlson add a little humor to the show.

The All School Show got its face lifted this year and was changed to the Thespian Talent Show. The new feature of this show was the awarding of cash prizes to the best act in the music, dramatic, and novelty divisions. Although everyone was not able to win an award, they did gain a lot of fun, experience, and a feeling of accomplishment.

T a l e n t

Paulette Thatcher wins first place in the novelty division by her acrobatic skill.

1st. place was won in the drama division with a pantomime of Officer Krupke by J. Patchin, D. Dovichi, L. Hansen, L. Swett, S. Launmeyer, S. Yurvilas, P. Prevo, M. Westphal, L. Cavinder, Z. Searle, C. Wilson.

"Three Little Maids" win first place for M.Fitzgerald, D.Roberts, J.Roberts.

Show

What a pleasant setting---a county morgue.

Everyone enjoyed the A Canella vocal
by Ruth Kretz, Bonnie Van Dyke, Sharon Jurs, Kathy Russel.

C.Van Nada and D.Hodges seem to be having a problem making a decision.

Choir

Miss Pinkerton seems very well pleased with the new Mr. McDuff.

Connie and Bill become friends.

Our A Cappella Choir put on its first musical at Lowell High. A delightful story about the agony suffered by Cooper High's student body when they get a new and very harsh principal, Mr. McDuff. Deprived of all fun and activities the students must resort to their ingenuity to change their miserable situation of mere studying. After little success, a simple chemistry explosion solves the problem by making Mr. McDuff lose his memory. Naturally all turns out well in the end.

Everyone including Senator Whiffwaff seems to be stricken with the new fad the twist.

Banquet

I bet Ronnie was at his best behavior at the FFA banquet.

Kenny, how's the food?

The annual F.F.A. event was a huge success again this year. Mr. Howard Addison was the guest speaker. Later in the evening, Bill Bush and Bill Carlson entertained everyone with their unusual skit.

Local farm girls make good.

Mothers'

Mothers' Tea Queen and Court: Linda Little, Midge Herbst, Sandi Zander, KAREN USHER, Sally Black, Mary Ann Bush, Linda Cavinder, Sharon Jurs.

A piano duet by Ruth Ann Branham and Gail Olsen was part of the entertainment.

Marge Rutkowske had the hard task of being Mistress of Ceremonies for the Mothers' Tea.

T e a

Every year there's the problem of getting the gym decorated in time.

Linda Swett is a fine example of the sewing skills of our home ec. classes who annually model their finished products at the Mothers' Tea.

The girls of Lowell High honor their mothers every year at the Mothers' Tea. The G.A.A. and Home Ec Club sponsor the occasion consisting of a style show, special entertainment by our students, and the crowning of the May Queen. This year, as in the past, the decorations and queen, Karen Usher, were lovely.

It is a rare occasion when a boy is even at the Mothers' Tea let alone be a part of the program, but this year Larry Cheek did a vocal selection.

All are waiting for the next dance.

Chris and Kathy sure enjoyed the Grand March.

The Junior-Senior Prom is a spectacular occasion and one which the upper classmen look forward to in keen anticipation. It is an evening filled with the excitement of lovely, sweet-scented girls, dressed in gorgeous gowns, lovingly adorned by pretty corsages put their by their gallant escorts who look so very handsome in their trim fitting tuxedos. The adoring glances and exchanges of compliments which the young people receive from their relatives, friends, and each other add just the right note and as they drive away in their newly washed and shined cars, the air is filled with fun and expectation. At the dance everyone is on their best behavior, but it isn't long before the comradeship and conversation get back to normal and everyone relaxes and enjoys the evening's fun of dancing, the Grand March, the delicious refreshments, and of just being together in good fellowship. The dance ends too soon, but the fun continues for early the next day everyone goes on a fun-packed picnic outing at a beach or park.

Time out for refreshments.

Stepping out smartly two by two.

Getting ready to start the Grand March.

Of course, there was dancing at the prom.

Donna Hodges and Ron Dawson are well pleased with the flower.

Oh boy! They're getting in their fifty mile hike!

Honor

Midge Herbst was the recipient of the Marylee Quivey Nursing Scholarship. Here she is being presented with the scholarship by our principal Mr. Dick.

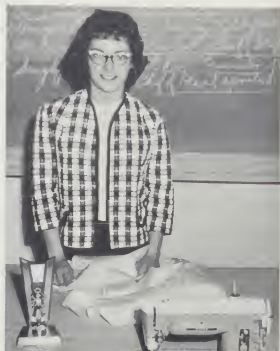

"Outstanding Thespians" this year were Mary Ann Titei and Mike Moody.

Jerry Boyd, alternate; Jim Rosenthal, delegate; Mike Grant, alternate; Howard Nutt, delegate to Boys' State.

In the later part of May special awards are given to some of the most deserving students at Lowell High. The honors include athletics, dramatics, English, agricultural, and musical recognition.

Musical numbers by the band and the senior farewell speech concludes the event.

Margie Rutkowske was presented with the "Homemaker of the Year" award.

Day

Betty Gray and Betty Talley are delegates and Kathy Bartz and Chris Van Nada are alternates to Girls' State.

Judy Saberniak was honored with the D.A.R. award annually given by the Daughters of the American Revolution. Judy was chosen for her outstanding citizenship throughout four years of high school.

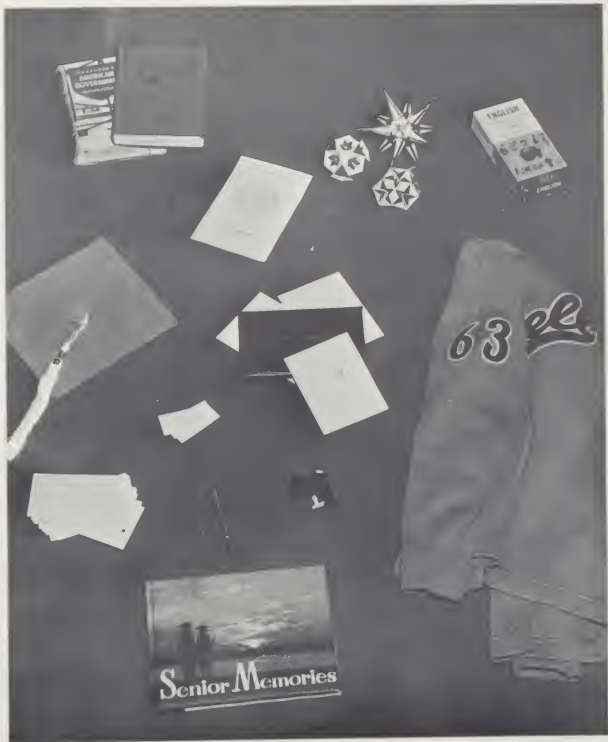

The Lillian Brownell English Award was presented to three seniors for their improvement and development of English skills. The three were Dawn Reusze, first place; Bob Livengood, second place; and Linda Sullivan third place.

"All Sports Award" was given to Bob Griesmer for his excellent sports ability.

Seniors

The fitting culmination of four years of hard and intensified study is, of course, graduation. As graduation nears, each and every senior looks back to the good and bad times he has had. Who could ever forget those long and tedious, yet enjoyable hours of deliberation in one of the houses in government class. The senior banquet brings fond memory as does the senior play. Also as graduation day draws nearer one can easily see that the seniors are happy and proud to be leaving the staunch discipline that accompanies education. Not so easily seen, however, is the reluctance that each senior feels toward leaving many of his old friends to attempt to make his mark in the complex world of today.

Seniors begin their preparations for the commencement by receiving their caps and gowns.

The decorating committee prepares the gym for baccalaureate and commencement.

The time for graduation has come, and Peg Prevo begins to prepare for the commencement exercises.

Lining up to begin the processional, the graduates appear to be a sea of varied emotions.

The audience turn their heads to watch the processional as it begins.

Ruth Collings welcomed the audience to the 1963 Commencement in her salutatory speech.

Judy Saberniak, Valedictorian of our class, presented her speech, which recalled many memories of our four years in high school.

Bob Haberzette awarded the Senior Good Citizenship Medal by Principal Tom Stuart.

So stanch they sit as they wait for their diplomas!

When a senior receives his diploma, it is the end of his high school days and the beginning of adulthood.

With her diploma in her hand, a happy Karen leads the recessional.

It seems that on all happy occasions someone has to shed a tear; and Alice did not let us down, she bawled like any graduating senior could.

As a member of the Senior Class, very soon you will be making a decision regarding a big step into the future. Perhaps your decision will be to go on for further education. Or it may be, you will be looking for the job of your choice. In either event, this decision will affect and shape your future life in many ways.

Regardless of what you decide, we hope that the Inland Steel Company will be a part of your future.

Many graduates are currently involved in successful careers here at the Harbor Works as part of the nation's basic steel industry.

Steel mill work today is highly complex, involving automated production lines which require people who can be trained in skilled jobs. Most of the jobs are involved directly in the steel-making process while others are available in the laboratories or in various departmental offices. Regardless of your interests, excellent opportunities exist with Inland Steel.

WHAT IS YOUR FUTURE?

In addition to excellent paying jobs and an outstanding benefit program, Inland offers a variety of on-the-job training programs plus the Purdue-Inland Program. This Program, offered to a full time employee, provides training in the areas of steelmaking, mechanics, and electricity.

Plan now to investigate the many opportunities for your future with Inland Steel Company.
